Eskimo launch Ottinetti valves in the UK

New for 100% Design 2011, Eskimo are launching a range of valves from Italian manufacturer Ottinetti. After scouring the planet for the perfect valves to match Eskimo's aesthetic and quality standards, Ottinetti shone out as the best valves available anywhere.

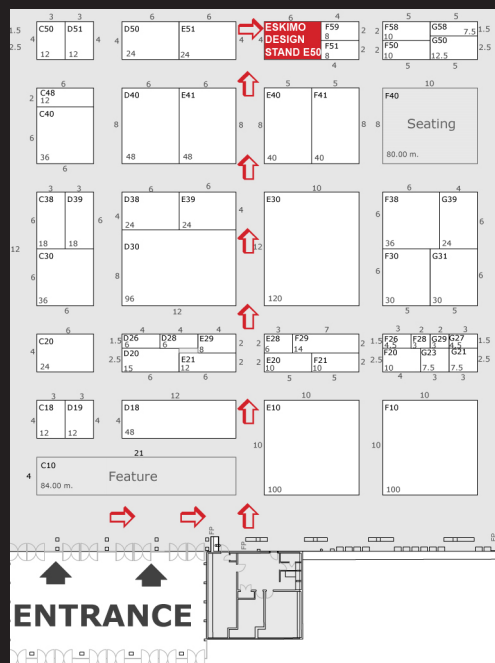

Eskimo can now provide options for both thermostatic and manual valves, available in a multitude of finishes specifically matched to Eskimo's radiators. With many products held in stock at Eskimo, and special lines available within 2 weeks direct from the factory, Eskimo can now offer valves that fully complement Eskimo's aesthetic qualities.

Phil Ward of Eskimo states: "If you're going to have an Eskimo, you want to be sure that the valves that are fitted with it will match the quality of the radiator itself – Eskimo's partnership with Ottinetti will ensure that. With these valves being the only part of Eskimo's product range not manufactured at our own factory in the UK, we needed to be certain that we chose a partner whose values mirrored our own. Ottinetti is a family run business where the owners take huge pride in their product and understand the importance of attention to design and finish details."

Depending on configuration and finish prices range from £42 to £124 + VAT for a complete valve set.
